PLANT WILL BE BUILT SOON

Richmond's newest industry will start construction of its new plant in the near future according to announcement made yesterday by officials of the Palmer Chase company of Oakland, following the completion of the transaction yesterday by which they acquired a factory site on Tehama between Monterey and San Joaquin in the annex section.

Building plans of the company are not as yet complete but the first unit is expected to be at least 50x100 feet or 100x100, officials announced yesterday. One end of the structure will be so constructed that an addition can be added without difficulty.

The city council Monday night paved the way for the plant when they rezoned the nine lots covering about one quarter of a block from residential to light industrial classification.

Approximately 20 employees are now working for the company but with the construction of the new plant here an expansion program is planned.

Tennis courts and other conveniences for the recreation of the workers are included in the temporary plans for the firm.

The structure will be a one-story building of modern type. The entire plant, due to the heavy presses and machinery used in the stamping and making of cartons and boxes will be on the ground floor officials stated yesterday when they announced that the structure, no matter what dimensions would only be one story in height.

The Palmer Chase company specializes in the making of fancy cartons and novelty boxes for display and similar purposes.

The Richmond Annex Land company closed the deal yesterday for the transfer of the property and deeds will be filed within a few days it was stated.

BUILDING THIEF PILFERS DRINKS
The Richmond Building Burglar yesterday officially opened the summer drinking season, according to police reports.

With the knowledge that the hot weather will soon be here and that nothing tastes better than a cold drink on a hot day, the Building Burglar started out to round up the needed drinks.

Peter Weber, watchman at the old brewery at Espee and Chausser avenues, reported yesterday that someone broke into the establishment and made away with two dozen bottles of near beer.

The Building Burglar is assured of a "cool summer."

MACKINNON INDICTED BY JURY

MARTINEZ, May 28.—Following indictment by the county grand jury today on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, Justice of the Peace A. H. Mackinnon of El Cerrito was arrested this afternoon in Martinez.

He was promptly arraigned before Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie and his bail set. He posted bond for $1000 and was given until June 3 to enter a plea before Superior Judge H. V. Alvarado.

The indictment is a result of an investigation by the grand jury of Mackinnon's arrest March 28, on the Tunnel road, State Traffic Officer E. P. Koefe, the arresting officer, charged the justice with drunken driving after Dr. A. H. Biede in Walnut Creek examined Mackinnon.

Judge Mackinnon has insisted since his arrest that his seeming intoxicated condition was due to drinking two cups of black coffee on an empty stomach causing high blood pressure.

This is the first charge of intoxicated driving, coming to trial in Contra Costa county courts in several years.

The El Cerrito justice is already charged with driving while under the influence of liquor under a warrant issued by Justice of the Peace Frank Glass in Martinez. The indictment, however, transfers the case from the justice court to the superior court.

Ordinarily, the charge of intoxicated driving, unless of a grievous nature, is reduced to reckless driving. The grand jury investigated the case owing to Mackinnon's official status. A score of witnesses were examined by the inquisitorial body.

LINDY, ANNE BEST PRESS IN SEARCH

NEW YORK, May 28.—UP—Over land, sea and air the pursuit of America's most famous newswoman went ahead with unslackened vigor tonight.

The challenge tossed by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his bride to a curious American public when they dropped from sight after a secret marriage, yesterday found newspaper representatives of the public more than eager to accept it.

Arling collectively at dawn hundreds of reporters proceeded with joyous abandon to turn the couple's honeymoon into a rollicking game of hide-and-seek that extended from the coast of Maine to the most secluded corners of Manhattan.

Every means of modern transportation was used in the chase—airplanes, yachts, express trains, fast motorboats and amphibians—and an ingeniousness was displayed that would put the best of Scotland Yard to blush.

But the young colonel and his bride still were ahead of the game tonight, with no trace of their whereabouts to be found.

PNEUMONIA FOUGHT BY CHILD

Suffering from double pneumonia, a seven-year-old boy lies at a local home, battling a grim fight against death. A crew of Richmond firemen, headed by Fire Chief W. P. Cooper is at the boy's side and through the use of the department inhalator they are keeping the few sparks of life burning.

The boy is Edwin Catt, seven, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Catt, of 217 South First street, Richmond.

Several days ago the boy became ill and a physician was summoned. His condition rapidly grew worse, in spite of the heroic efforts of the doctor. Yesterday his condition became alarming. The illness had developed into double pneumonia.

The boy's lungs, crippled by the attack of the disease almost refused to function. Aid was needed.

Firemen Called
Yesterday Fire Chief William P. Cooper was asked to add the child. A few minutes later the firemen were at the bedside. Life giving oxygen was then slowly given to the boy.

As the result of the treatment, attending physicians reported that

Renee Lefevre, pilot of the French plane, and Armeno, Lotti, Jr., backer of the flight to Paris are now en route by train from New York.

Three headquarters sites have been selected by the committee, while the fourth will be decided upon by Fire Chief W. P. Cooper, City Manager James A. McVittie, and S. S. Ripley.

Three headquarters have been selected. They are the Memorial Hall, Carquinez Hotel and the Berkeley country club. The fourth headquarters, which will be of frame construction, would be used in event of an earthquake. Pinole, El Cerrito and San Pablo, which are members of the local chapter, would be aided in event of a disaster by the local committee. It was decided last night.

METEOR THEORY TRIUMPHS

No doubt lingers in the minds of scientists that the crater near Winslow, Arizona, was formed by the impact of a heavenly missile. The recent announcement of one of the irreconcilables that he now agreed with the Barringer theory that a meteor (probably a cometary nucleus of swarming bodies) formed the great hole, removes the last distinguished scientist from the ranks of the doubters.

Relatively ancient, this hole in the practically horizontal strata of lime and sandstone, was the result of the arrival at many miles per hour of a body of metallic waste from the cosmos. It struck the surface of the soil, thinly overlying solid rock, with such force that it literally splashed its way some hundreds of feet underneath the ground level, and there either came to rest, as many believe, or was dissipated as gaseous iron vapor due to the tremendous heat of the impact.

As the studies of the astronomers progress, it becomes more and more apparent that even the large bright comets are comparatively small in mass and bulk. Astronomers believe that the comet is a cluster of particles ranging from the size of an atom to a few hundred tons, hurtling through space like a charge of shot from a scattergun. It is only the exciting effect of certain obscure radiations from the sun that causes the development of the brightness of the head and the long, wispy tail, the most notable visual features of the object.

Such a cometary mass driving with resistless force through the solar system, drew too near the earth, which exercised its gravitational prerogative, attracted the mass to itself and brought about the bullet-like scar on the plains of northern Arizona.

No other explanation fully takes care of the physical facts. The shape and size of the crater, the presence of meteoric iron, the manner in which the strata have been disturbed and finally the rock flour, detritus of a tremendous collision, all require the impact theory. In some ways, now well agreed upon, the gas explosion and the steam blow-out theories do not suffice.

IN THE NAME OF SCIENCE

The clinic disaster serves to show that even the preservers of human life and health may err and bring about the end they try to avert.

Somewhere in the Cleveland establishments, a man mistook the function of a basement room, and stored therein materials which could burn, and in burning gave off a type of fumes pitifully fatal to nearby persons. Possibly this storage was with the knowledge or at the instruction of a distinguished medical man. His mind centered upon what he considered the more essential work of the clinic, he saw to the accumulation of materials whose combustion created the worst disaster in recent weeks.

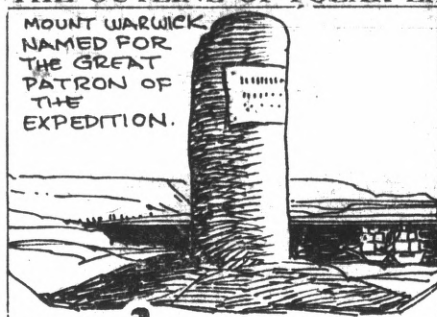

The sacrifice of lives should be atoned for by all who have power to distribute materials which might cause trouble. If all inflammable goods were stored with the idea that they might one day take fire, there would soon be a rule by which such masses of goods could be regulated. It would be no more the custom to put them in a dangerous place than it is now to chuck lighted matches about in a powder factory.

Its hard to tell daughter from her grandmother nowadays, but father can still be distinguished from his son by the bald spot.

A great many of the liberals who protest violently every time a bootlegger gets shot in line of duty, are not so much worried lest personal liberty be violated as they are lest their supply of liquor be cut off.

There is a man out in our end of town who is so great a pacifist that he is going to bury his can of paris green and try to reach an agreement with the potato bugs by arbitration.

FIRE SCENE IN GODLESS GIRL THRILLER

That Cecil B. DeMille's latest production, "The Godless Girl," will parallel in spectacular appeal his other screen successes, is indicated by the unusual interest manifested in the picture in the larger cities of the country and the generally favorable reviews accorded it by Los Angeles reviewers.

DeMille's picture, a picture of the screen plays of "The Godless Girl," and "The King of Kings," were the original story of "The Godless Girl" for Pathe. It has the unusual locale of a State Reformatory.

The fire scene in this story is said to be among the most effective ever portrayed on the screen. A five-story building representing a reformatory, a complete background for the highest point in "The Godless Girl," and it was especially built for this thrilling fire scene. Studio engineers perfected a method by which the building was made to collapse, causing brick walls five stories in height to topple either in or out at any given moment. The fire scene with the thousand of bricks falling upon the fleeing inmates in the reform school yards is one of the most spectacular scenes ever caught by the motion picture camera.

The plot of "The Godless Girl," which is now playing at the Fox-California theater, brings together the leading characters portrayed by Lina Baragatti, George Duryea, Marie Prevost, Ruth Beery and Eddie Golan in an intense situation during the tragic fire scene, and it was Cecil B. DeMille's plan to couple the remarkable picture with a gripping drama at the climax of the picture.

With two of the most remarkable screen achievements in cinema history to his credit—the opening of the Red Sea in the "Ten Commandments" and the earthquake at Calvary in "The King of Kings," DeMille faced a tremendous task in presenting anything approaching them in "The Godless Girl." But kill and perseverance accomplished the seemingly impossible as the picture amply proves.

Navy Aviators Aid In Making 'Flying Fleet'
 Ramon Novarro, as a naval aviator, staging a series of thrilling rides in the clouds, is the hero of "The Flying Fleet," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's vivid drama of naval aviation which will be at the Fox-Richmond theater today and tomorrow.

The new production, made in co-operation with naval fliers, is a graphic inside view of life with Uncle Sam's naval fliers, staged on a spectacular scale. Most of the picture was filmed in the air, with a sensational airplane review, the "Suicide Squadron," in what is probably the most thrilling series of stunt ever filmed. Landings and takeoffs from the great airplane carriers and a sensational rescue at sea, with an airplane burned for a beacon, are others of the amazing details.

Junior and Wolheim were rehearsing a scene of a military school sequence which called for Wolheim to portray considerable gaiety. After rehearsing Wolheim in his part several times, Director Louis Mason Hopper decided that Wolheim had reached the desired pinnacle of joy. The cameras were ready, the lights were "flashed" and just as the director called "camera," an unknown voice loudly informed the set that Army had just lost the game.

Wolheim's expression of cheer suddenly underwent a change to the other extreme. The director, however, failed to notice this transformation, or he might have called for another rehearsal. As it was, the cameras started grinding, and Wolheim, the real actor again, portrayed joy to the nth degree.

Yes, Louis had a bet on the Army, and the owner of the unknown voice knew it. Needless to say, when the scene was over, Louis found that the obliging informant had effected a discreet "fade out."

SYNOPSIS
 Through a binding storm a Continental train is speeding towards Paris. In a private compartment are three friends, Ivan a Russian; Armand, a Frenchman; and Emil, a German. They invite a French girl to share their seats, trying to flirt with her. But they are interrupted by the appearance of a priest, and then two Americans, Jim Travis and Al. The train is wrecked and Travis saves the girl from death, seeking protection from the rain, Al and Travis, with the girl, come upon a mysterious inn in which a strangely silent landlord and a maid, Hilda, seem the only occupants.

 The maid retreated to the kitchen, and Al, having lost his first fear, followed her in the hopes of finding his cognac quickly. Hilda, the candle still in her hand, reached up for the big key and unlocked the cellar door. Al, peering over her shoulder, could see a long, dark flight of steps, and nothing more. He looked at the girl and grinned, motioning for her to go on ahead. She giggled and began the descent, her candle making leaping shadows on the old stone walls.

"Well, he's certainly a fine hotel keeper!" Travis looked after the man, scarcely knowing whether to be amused or angry. "He acts as though he didn't want any guests." "Perhaps it is that it is very late and he does not like to be disturbed," the girl suggested. "He goes now to arrange the rooms." She began drawing off the Dolman and holding it out to the fire. "Here, let me fix it for you." He arranged her coat over a chair back so that it should dry.

The girl smiled tenderly on the bent head of the man and raised her other hand as though to stroke his hair. Then she drew back quickly, conscious of her gesture. But as though something of her feeling of tenderness had transferred itself to Travis, he straightened up and looked at the girl with a new light in his eyes. Her pale beauty seemed to glow upon him until, almost without thinking, he leaned forward, prompted somehow to take her in his arms. Her hands trembled and she caught them to her breast.

"What an idiot I am," Travis exclaimed, noting her gesture, and misunderstanding it. "You're cold, and I've been standing here doing nothing. That maid hasn't brought the cognac yet, either. And I don't suppose there's any use calling the landlord. Here, I'll see if I can find something myself." Travis started hurriedly toward the kitchen. In the archway he turned around.

It was announced today by H. P. Bell, vice president in charge of engineering for the Key System, that the ferry boat will undergo a strict government inspection.  "NOAH'S ARK" starring Dolores Costello and featuring George O'Brien is a Warner Bros. pictureization of the novel. It is based upon the scenario by Darryl Francis Zanuck.

SYNOPSIS
 Through a binding storm a Continental train is speeding towards Paris. In a private compartment are three friends, Ivan a Russian; Armand, a Frenchman; and Emil, a German. They invite a French girl to share their seats, trying to flirt with her. But they are interrupted by the appearance of a priest, and then two Americans, Jim Travis and Al. The train is wrecked and Travis saves the girl from death, seeking protection from the rain, Al and Travis, with the girl, come upon a mysterious inn in which a strangely silent landlord and a maid, Hilda, seem the only occupants.

 The maid retreated to the kitchen, and Al, having lost his first fear, followed her in the hopes of finding his cognac quickly. Hilda, the candle still in her hand, reached up for the big key and unlocked the cellar door. Al, peering over her shoulder, could see a long, dark flight of steps, and nothing more. He looked at the girl and grinned, motioning for her to go on ahead. She giggled and began the descent, her candle making leaping shadows on the old stone walls.

"Well, he's certainly a fine hotel keeper!" Travis looked after the man, scarcely knowing whether to be amused or angry. "He acts as though he didn't want any guests." "Perhaps it is that it is very late and he does not like to be disturbed," the girl suggested. "He goes now to arrange the rooms." She began drawing off the Dolman and holding it out to the fire. "Here, let me fix it for you." He arranged her coat over a chair back so that it should dry.

The girl smiled tenderly on the bent head of the man and raised her other hand as though to stroke his hair. Then she drew back quickly, conscious of her gesture. But as though something of her feeling of tenderness had transferred itself to Travis, he straightened up and looked at the girl with a new light in his eyes. Her pale beauty seemed to glow upon him until, almost without thinking, he leaned forward, prompted somehow to take her in his arms. Her hands trembled and she caught them to her breast.

And I don't suppose there's any use calling the landlord. Here, I'll see if I can find something myself." Travis started hurriedly toward the kitchen. In the archway he turned around.

"Say, you know I don't even know your name," he laughed. "We seem to be stuck here for a while and I can't keep on calling you 'Mademoiselle.' My name's Jim Travis—what's yours?" The girl looked at him smiling. "Marie," she said. "Marie Vielcazal."

PUBLIC TOURS TELEPHONE OFFICE

An interesting tour was made yesterday by a great many Richmond residents when the local exchange of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company held open house. The invitation was issued to visitors by George Calvert, local manager.

Guides experienced in the functions of all apparatus and equipment were on hand to welcome the visitors and to show them through the plant and offices.

Of special interest was the visit to the switchboard. Operators conducted the visitors from one board to another carefully explaining the working of each. Exhibitions were made of long distance calls and local calls and the general operation of all calls was explained.

Among other interesting items of the switchboard were the small electric clocks, the hands of which move every nine seconds and are used to time calls, the devices used to ascertain the amount of money put into a pay telephone and the devices for refunding the money.

Every operation is reduced to the minimum of time and effort. An array of levers, lights and plugs, which the operator can master in about three weeks of practice, make her one of the most efficient and modern of public helpers.

Visitors were delighted with the array of modern conveniences furnished by the company for their employees. Rest rooms beautifully furnished with rugs, curtains, chesterfield sets, with magazines and a phonograph for amusement, a complete kitchen and steel lockers are some of the advantages enjoyed by the operators.

HOOVER'S LAW PROBERS IN SESSION

WASHINGTON, May 28.—UP—Lawyers today started an attempt to identify the body of a middle aged man found on the ocean beach seven miles west of Colma today. The man is believed to be John F. Cassell, a missing San Francisco attorney.

Murder or suicide were the opinions voiced by S. A. Landini, constable of Colma, who declared that what appeared to be a bullet hole was found in the man's skull.

Every description of Cassell, with two exceptions, tallied with the dead man. The two exceptions were that the dead man was wearing a suit made by a San Francisco tailor and was carrying a cheap, silver watch. Cassell wore a ready-made suit and carried a gold watch.

Cassell was well known in Richmond, having at one time been attorney for the Mintzer estate.

CLERICS URGE UNION OF CHURCHES

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 28.—(UP)—Half a dozen obscure ministers from St. Louis, Cincinnati, San Francisco and other widely separated American cities charged today that the Presbyterian church was too slow in union deliberations with other churches and demanded that it "step on the gas."

Demand came late today at the 141st Presbyterian General Assembly when the committee on cooperation began reading routine reports and recommendations.

J. Ross Stevenson, president of Princeton seminary and chairman of the union committee, was discussing deliberation negotiations with other branches of the Presbyterian church and Methodists and Episcopalians when Rev. John E. Stuchell, San Francisco, leaped to his feet and shouted:

"I don't know how conditions are in other parts of the country, but if anything like those in California we are in desperate need of immediate union with not only other branches of the Presbyterian church but all Christian churches."

"For years we have talked union but have produced no results. Competition between churches is becoming more and more intense daily. If ever a country needed union it is modern America."

Step On Gas
"Let's step on the gas. I don't want to think that there are separate heavens for my Methodist or Episcopal or Lutheran or Catholic friends. Let's try and unite with all followers of Christ."

Before Rev. Stuchell reached his seat a dozen speakers clamored for recognition and Dr. William E. Lampe, St. Louis, was given the floor. He said it was the feeling among the rank and file of churchmen that union action is far too slow and that instead of waiting for union of Presbyterian branches before starting negotiations with others, that union moves be made with any and all churches.

Action Urged
Rev. Bernard L. Rice, Cincinnati said "union moves of our church so far have been all talk and no action. We are told at each assembly that we are willing to unite with the Methodists and Episcopalians and they with us. Well, then, why don't we do it?" Stevenson explained that union with Methodists would be put to vote of both bodies in 1932 and if passed would become effective possibly in 1936 when ratified by Methodists at their assembly.

Shipments Of Spring Lambs Break Records

Shipments of lambs from California points to eastern markets this year will break all previous records, according to R. L. Ruby, superintendent of transportation for the Southern Pacific.

Ruby estimates that approximately 400,000 spring lambs will be shipped east from California this season. This will eclipse last year's record figure by more than 70,000.

The heaviest movements of spring lambs are from the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys although some shipments are moving from other districts.

The 1929 spring lamb season which began about April 1 will extend until the early part of June, according to Ruby.

TARIFF BILL PASSED BY HOUSE

WASHINGTON, May 28.—UP—The administration tariff bill, designed to carry on the traditional Republican protectionist policy, passed the house today 264 to 147. Only a few Republicans voted against it and only a few Democrats for it.

Before adopting the bill itself the house defeated a motion by Representative Garner Democrat of Texas, to send the measure back to committee with instructions to eliminate the flexible tariff provisions, which give the president power to alter the rates fixed by congress. The vote was 254 to 157, another party line division.

Friends of the bill claim it carries out President Hoover's campaign promise to provide, limited tariff revision agriculture additional protection and doing away with obvious injustices in the old rates. Its opponents say the measure will set up the highest tariff wall in history and increase the cost of living $700,000,000 a year.

Santa Fe Will Appeal Lane Damage Award

MARTINEZ, May 28.—The Santa Fe railroad company today indicated it would appeal from the verdict of $20,000 damages recently granted to Mrs. Katherine L. Lane and her daughter Dorothy for the death of their husband and father, J. E. Lane in Richmond on Oct. 11, 1927.

Plans for the appeal was indicated when Superior Judge H. V. Alvarado denied the petition of the railroad company for a new trial. Mrs. Lane and a daughter originally sued for $50,000 damages. The jury awarded damages of $20,000 a few weeks ago. Lane was killed when the truck in which he was riding was struck by a Santa Fe engine in the Standard Oil refinery yards in Richmond last October.

MORE RAILS

For the Inner Harbor

More progress for Richmond!

The Southern Pacific company has announced that surveyors are now at work near Stege on the Seaver avenue tracks that will connect the main line with Richmond's inner harbor.

Here is another step toward making Richmond a world shipping port. Rail and water will meet at the inner harbor when these tracks are completed and when the new Parr Richmond terminal is ready for operation. Both these things will happen this summer.

One shipping company already has agreed to make Richmond a port of call, and others are in line to take this step. Arrangements have been completed with drayage and barge companies to put Richmond on a parity with other east bay cities as regards charges.

These are all moves toward one objective—making Richmond a world port, a clearing point for the products of the bay shore and the agricultural back country.

Industrial progress is being forwarded by intensive personal salesmanship throughout the east. Many new industries are already in sight. More contacts will be made.

This is Richmond's big year, and its progress is due to the organization work accomplished by the Chamber of Commerce.

Are we all doing our part?

OAKS DEFEAT STARS IN FIRST

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—UP—Relative positions of all clubs in the Pacific Coast league remained almost unchanged today as the first three teams scored victories.

Oakland was the only second division club to win beating Hollywood, fourth place team, 10 to 3.

The Missions trounced Sacramento, 12 to 9, being hard pressed only once during the entire contest. The Missions started out with a good lead but the Senators crawled up until they were only one run behind in the sixth inning.

The second place Los Angeles Angels had to score twice in the eleventh inning to beat Seattle, 5 to 3. The Indians had tied the score with one run in the eighth inning and when the game ended had scored three more hits than the Angels but they wasted some and lost.

San Francisco's Seals had little difficulty in beating Portland, 8 to 4. They allowed the Beavers to score only in the sixth inning after they had piled up a total of seven runs.

Card Track Men Arrive At Meet

PHILADELPHIA, May 28.—(UP)—The Stanford track and field squad arrived tonight to defend its 1927 and 1928 championships at the annual I. C. A. U. meet at Franklin field Friday and Saturday.

Most critics favor the squad to repeat its success this year, and many feel that Penn has the best chance of halting the west-erners with Barney Berlinger, its all-around star.

Director Lawson Robertson admits that his chances of winning with the Penn squad rest largely upon Berlinger's ability to score points in four events.

Aside from Penn, Yale and New York university are given the best chance among eastern teams. Yale was second to Stanford last year, and N. Y. U., on its showing in dual meets, looks good.

Stanford will have its first work-out Wednesday, to loosen up after the long trip from Palo Alto. The squad includes men who scored nearly three-fourths of Stanford's points last year, and has also a number of new potential point winners.

Stanford was the last of the Pacific Coast teams to arrive. Coach Walter Christie and his five university of California men were on the scene today, and Dean Cromwell's Southern California contingent arrived just before the Cardinals.

Stanford has won the Pacific Coast title, and so is rated above either of its coast cousins, therefore it is thought they cannot be depended upon to halt the Cardinals.

The first of the eastern teams is expected here Thursday. Thirty-two colleges and universities are entered, the majority from the Atlantic seaboard.

CIGARETS GAIN IN FAVOR OF SMOKERS

World wide use of cigarettes is keeping pace with the increase in cigar smoking in the United States, with corresponding declines in pipe smoking and cigars.

In England, where pipe smoking used to be general, more tobacco now is used for cigarettes than for pipes, the ratio being 60 percent for cigarettes and 40 percent for pipes, a change from only 34 percent for cigarettes as against 71 percent for pipes twenty years ago.

In France cigarette production has increased by nearly one-third in a year, from approximately 10,000,000,000 cigarettes in 1927 to over 13,000,000,000 in 1928.

The reasons for the increasing use of cigarettes throughout the world are generally given as the convenience for a mild, quick smoke, and increasing familiarity with the American type of light blended tobaccos with irritants removed by the toasting process.

Moreover, throughout Europe the tendency toward fashionable slenderness is causing more and more women to smoke, according to observers in close touch with the tobacco industry.

Two of the most remarkable changes in smoking taste occurred in India, where 6,500,000,000 cigarettes were smoked last year, as against less than 1,000,000,000 cigarettes before the war, and in Spain. Imports of American cigarettes into Spain jumped in one year from 67,000,000 cigarettes in 1927 to 7,600,000,000 in 1928, a gain of 113 times, due to a beneficial treaty negotiated between the two countries. Similarly, Spain's imports of American leaf tobacco increased in the same period from 1,500,000 pounds to more than 11,000,000 pounds.

There are 48,875 school buses in use for daily transportation of pupils to 15,930 schools in all parts of the country. These buses cover 410,370 miles of route daily and comprise fifty-four percent of the motor buses in use in the United States.

MCHUGH TAKES STATE GOLF LEAD

DEL MONTE, May 28.—UP—California's amateur golf champion, John J. McHugh of San Francisco, equalled the Pebbles Beach course record of one above par in defense of his title here today and shared medal honors with Fay Coleman of Los Angeles.

When the 36 hole qualifying round of the 18th annual state amateur tournament ended today McHugh and Coleman were tied for low with cards of 153.

Coleman gained his place at the head of the list of best 32 with consistent golf, turning in a score of 76 today after a 77 Monday. On the other hand McHugh had been in tenth place Monday night after an 80 for 13 holes but his sensational 73 today enabled him to regain prestige.

Ralph Hoffman, San Jose youth totaled 154 with a 75 and a 69 to take third place among the qualifiers. Two golfers with totals of 173 were tied for 32nd place and will probably engage in a playoff to determine which one of them shall compete in match play starting Wednesday.

BANKERS WIN OVER FIRE FIGHTERS

The title of this story is: Bound to Win or the Bankers' Revenge? It seems that at the start of the present Richmond Commercial Twilight league season the Firemen were rated to win the championship sans struggle, sans opposition. But there is many a slip—etc.

Last night the Mechanic's Bankers, who were rated among the "easy teams" of the league, met the strong Firemen at the First Street park.

When the dust of conflict rolled away and after the wounded had been attended to, the Firemen were on the wrong end of a nine to one score.

Young Sac Gordon made his blushing debut as a pitcher yesterday and the boy was in perfect form. He allowed but two safe hits during the game and the Firemen were only able to score one run off him.

Marcos and McLaughlin led the attack for the bankers. Both boys garnered three hits out of four trips to the platter. Patrique McDonald and Gordon both made two out of four.

Torrence and Addison were the only Firemen to get a hit. Torrence scored the only run for the Redshirts.

PICNIC LUNCHESES EXHIBITED BY BUREAU

Any lunch you eat out doors can be called a picnic lunch. Summer-time is the time for picnics, but a good many of these picnic meals are just alike, running to starches, fats and sugars, as potato salad, macaroni salad, sandwiches, beans, cake. The eleven home departments of the farm bureau of this county have had picnic lunches demonstrated by the project leaders who have brought out points not usually considered in a picnic lunch—whether to save work at home or at the picnic, by considering in planning the menu the kind of group to be served, whether chiefly adults or chiefly children—and by having a vegetable and egg dish as the main dish. The following is the usual menu served: a vegetable dish as peas, asparagus, celery escalloped with eggs, covered with buttered crumbs and brought hot by wrapping well with newspapers and put in a pail. Plain brown bread sandwiches; a fruit salad with the fruit arranged in layers in a glass jar for juicy fruits as oranges, dates or figs, and nuts on top. Apples and bananas are placed in another jar and moistened with lemon juice and covered with mayonnaise, which keeps them as white as though just prepared. Lastly cookies with coffee for adults and cocoa or milk for the children.

These project leaders attended a meeting on picnic lunches which was supervised by Miss Hilda Faust, nutrition specialist of the Agricultural Extension Service. There they learned four types of picnic lunches but have demonstrated only one. The project leaders present were Mrs. Mary Borba, Mrs. Mellie Burneson, of Knightsen; Mrs. Joe Lynch, Lone Tree; Mrs. Fred Rahfs, Live Oak; Mrs. George Andrews, Mrs. Frank Kennerly, Ambrose; Mrs. Rasmussen, Mrs. H. Leonard, Concord; Mrs. T. D. Graham, Mrs. R. A. Meserole, Oak Grove; Mrs. M. Borba, Mrs. A. G. Gilman, Walnut Hill; Mrs. B. Collins, Walnut Creek; Mrs. L. Lafayette, Mrs. C. Reichhold, Miss Ida Hall, Alamo; Mrs. Wm. Barnes, Mrs. E. H. Betts, Danville. Picnic meals may be at camp sites where one stays a day or more; that takes us into camp cookery which will be taken up in home demonstration work in June.

FIREMEN HELP BOY FIGHT FOR LIFE

The lad was considerably improved, although his condition is still "very serious."

All night tonight and all day today, if the need be, the firemen squad will administer oxygen to the boy.

There are four men at work at the bedside. They are Chief Cooper, J. J. Barry, assistant chief and Hosemen Carl Kamb and Percy F. Mortenson.

Famous Case Recalled

It was a year ago that nationwide attention was brought to Richmond through the work of the inhalator squad of the Richmond fire department.

Harold Purviance, then a restaurant owner, lay in the Cottage hospital suffering from double pneumonia. His condition grew so bad that his life was despaired of.

In a last attempt to save Purviance's life, the inhalator squad was called. Under the direction of Chief Cooper, local firemen hurried to the bedside with their apparatus. Air was gently forced into lungs that were too weak to breathe.

Worked For Week

For more than a week the firemen remained at their task, working in shifts. Hour after hour Purviance breathed "canned" air while the whole medical world watched the battle.

And then, after almost two weeks of aid, Purviance grew better. Today he is a healthy member of the department to which he owes his life.

Everything within the power of medical science is being done for the Cott boy.

GIRL SHATTERS ALTITUDE RECORD

LOS ANGELES, May 28.—U.P.—While one flier piloted his plane along the beaten path he had taken at dawn in an effort to break the world solo endurance flight record, a plucky aviatrix from Alaska was believed to have set a new women's altitude mark here today.

The girl, Miss Marvel Crossen, sent her ship to an unofficial altitude of approximately 24,000 feet, but the official figure will not be known until the barograph is opened at the Bureau of Standards in Washington, D. C. Should her mark be higher than the 20,170 foot record held by Mrs. Louis M. Thaden, of Oakland, the honor will change hands.

After New Record
Lieutenant Herbert Fahy, of Los Angeles was still circling a coast route tonight after passing the twelfth hour of his endurance cruise. He had been in the air twelve hours at 4:43:05 p. m.

The attempt was his second in four days. After being aloft for 21 hours he was forced down by fog early Sunday. The present official solo endurance without refueling record of 34 hours and 50 minutes was set by the late Royal Thomas.

Avoids Monotony

Lieutenant Fahy was flying as far south as San Diego tonight to avoid the monotony of a short cruise. He hoped to remain in the air for more than 40 hours, landing after Wednesday noon.

By staying in the air 40 hours Lieut. Fahy hopes to also better the unofficial non-refueling endurance mark of 35 hours, 33 minutes held by Martin Jensen.

Numb From Cold

Miss Crossen was aloft slightly more than two hours on her long climb and return. She took off from Mines field at 11:14 a. m. and landed at 1:29 p. m. She jumped from the cockpit to the arms of her mother who had kept constant vigil on the ground.

The girl, who for a time flew supplies into Alaskan camps, suffered a slight numbness from the cold and was taken to her home to rest a few minutes after landing.

Capt. Roscoe Turner, chief pilot of the Nevada Air Lines, announced today that he would try to break the world solo non-refueling mark in the next few weeks.
